

ANTARCTICA PENINSULA

January 5-16, 2025

Join Faith Ortins from Blue Green Expeditions on an educational diving-oriented adventure to the Antarctic Peninsula. Dive, snorkel, and cruise around massive icebergs, hang out with penguins and leopard seals, and explore pristine polar landscape along with explore polar landscape along with photographer Becky Kagan Schott and other polar diving specialists on an amazing expedition to Antarctica!

We arrive January 5, 2025, in Ushuaia, Argentina for a mandatory overnight stay and a day tour of Tierra Del Fuego National Park before embarking on our journey aboard the majestic m/v Plancius to Antarctica on January 6, 2025.

We will sail through the Drake Passage tracing the path of the early polar explorers who first braved these regions. Along the way, we will see Humpback and Minke whales breaching in the sea as well as albatrosses and many other birds that will accompany us on our journey. We will tour glaciers and icebergs on zodiac cruises exploring areas few people have ever seen before.

Amongst the epic landscape of mammoth glaciers and wind-carved snow live colonies of thousands of penguins nesting on these islands. Divers will also experience the opportunity to swim with penguins and leopard seals as well as seeing the unique invertebrate life of Antarctica on this fantastic adventure.
