

FALKLANDS SOUTH GEORGIA SOUTH SANDWICH

Dec. 30, 2028-Jan. 22, 2029

Antarctica Citizen Science

OUR DREAM ITINERARY!

This is an itinerary we have been trying to do for years! It combines the best of Falklands and South Georgia with its extraordinary king penguin colonies, kelp forests, incredible terrain, and fascinating history with true exploration at the bottom of the Scotia Arc South Sandwich Islands.

These small group of islands are sub-Antarctic meaning they are in the Southern Ocean but not below the 60 degree parallel so they are not technically part of Antarctica. However they are home to many of the animals associated with Antarctica: millions of penguins including massive king penguin colonies in South Georgia; a chinstrap penguin colony over 1 million strong in South Sandwich; seals of all types and multiple species of whales in the rich waters surrounding these islands.

These volcanic islands are among the most remote in the world. Indeed, they have only been visited by a passenger ship twice in this century- Blue Green Expeditions was there both times, and we are still the only people to have dove in the waters around South Sandwich. This is a 23 day expedition currently scheduled for Dec 30, 2028-Jan 22, 2029. With multiple Citizen Science activities for all, including ROV mapping in the South Sandwich Islands, we expect this to fill VERY quickly.
